U. S. AIR SERVICE MAY BE SPLIT WIDE OPEN

SERIOUS ROW IS STARTED AFTER GENERALS FUSS

Major General Menoher Requests Removal Of Assistant.

BREWING FOR MONTHS

Secretary Of War Weeks To Investigate Trouble Personally.

Washington, June 10.—A controversy which threatens to rip the air service wide open, is on in earnest today as a result of the demand made by Major General Charles T. Menoher, chief of air service that Brig. General William Mitchell, his first assistant, be relieved of his duties. So serious is the row regarded that Secretary of War Weeks has assumed personal charge of the inquiry to ascertain the causes of General Menoher's action and the least that is expected to result from his investigation is a general shake up and a dealignment of personnel. The row has been brewing for months. Back of it is a long fought controversy over whether the air service shall be directed by flying officers or by officers of other arms, infantry, cavalry or artillery, who may or may not be familiar with flying conditions. The real cause of the final break between the two highest officers of the service, it was learned today, was General Mitchell's objection to Menoher's placing a number of non-flying officers of high rank in administrative positions in the air service. The national defense act stipulates that no more than 10 per cent of officers of any rank in the air service may be non-flying. Gen. Menoher interpreted this to mean that not more than 10 per cent of all the officers of the service could be non-flyers. Gen. Mitchell contended that the language meant that not more than 10 per cent of the officers of any one rank could be ground officers. Becomes Warm. The controversy became so warm that interpretation of the act was put up to the judge advocate general of the army and it is understood that a decision was rendered favoring General Mitchell's side of the argument. Conditions then became such that General Menoher requested that Gen. Mitchell be removed. Both Menoher and Mitchell have distinguished war records. Mitchell is recognized as one of the most expert flyers in the service. He is the only flying general in the army. He was awarded the distinguished service cross for combat flying over the enemy lines in the second battle of the Marne. He is extremely popular among the younger flying officers who make up the bulk of the air service. Menoher won distinction as commander of the rainbow division in most of its principal engagements from Chateau Thierry to the Argonne. He is not a flying officer. The case has kicked up a fine row in army circles. Gen. Mitchell's friends predicted today that if he is removed from his administrative duties in the air service it will cause many resignations among flying officers. The flyers resent what they term "West Point dictation" from officers who have had no experience in battling air conditions. A chart has been prepared it was said in flying circles today, showing that less than a score of West Point graduates have ever won the double wings that denote a pilot. The Menoher-Mitchell row has afforded the flyers a long sought opportunity to air their grievances.

GOETHALS LEAVES CUBA

Havana, Cuba, June 10.—Major General W. Goethals, retired, who has passed a week in the interior of Cuba, left for New York after expressing his willingness it is reported, to take general charge of the Government's project for a system of National highways. One condition of acceptance, it is added, is that the roads shall be concrete.

HARD TIMES!

Akron, June 10.—Joseph Sourek, attorney, ate his dinner from a tin plate in the jail this noon because he did not have $25 to pay a contempt of Court fine. This fine was assessed by Judge H. C. Spicer in Domestic Relations Court, when Sourek said his client wasn't "getting a square deal" in a divorce hearing.

GREECE BEGINS NAVAL OPERATIONS

ATHENS, June 10.—Greece has begun naval operations against the Turkish nationalists, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens today. Mrs. Galbraith is believed to be willing to accept the war department's offer to nationally honor the legion leader.

240 LIVES LOST IN AEGEAN SEA AS SHIP SINKS

Passenger Liner Destroyed By Mine; Only Two Saved.

London, June 10.—Two hundred and forty lives are reported to have been lost in the destruction of the passenger liner Bouboulina by a mine, said a dispatch from Athens today. The Bouboulina was bound from Smyrna on the Anatolian (Turkish) coast when she struck the mine. According to one report received at Athens the ship foundered so quickly that only two persons were saved. The Bouboulina was sunk in the Aegean Sea. The Bouboulina was a small ship of less than 1500 tons and flew the Greek flag.

MEXICO REFUSES ANY OFFER WHICH DISREGARDS LAW

Mexico City, June 10.—Mexico refuses to accept clauses Nos. 2 and 3 of the American state department's conditions for Mexican recognition because they call for revision of article 27 of Mexican constitution, it was learned from unofficial sources today. The Mexican government it was said, would refuse to accept any clause which interferes with the right of Mexico to make her own laws. It was pointed out, however, that Mexico will give assurances to Washington that no law enacted in this country shall be retroactive.

Mexican officials do not believe that the present obstacles are insurmountable. They declare that the exchanges which have been going forward between this city and Washington are to "clear the atmosphere, exchange ideas and to determine the position of some of the Mexican laws."

SHRIEK OF AGONY HEARD AS MAN FALLS TO DEATH

Police Investigate Death Of Foreman On Job In Akron.

Akron, O., June 10.—A shriek of agony and then the dull thud of a body landing on concrete 100 feet below were the thrills brought out late last night in the police inquiry into the death of J. M. McGee, foreman on the North Hill viaduct. Shortly thereafter Otis Shiry, 21, of Difficult, Tenn., was placed under arrest on the charge of murder. Both men were working on the viaduct yesterday when, during an altercation McGee discharged Shiry. After accepting the discharge slip, Shiry is said to have picked up a plank and hit McGee over the head. As the body of McGee swayed over the precipice, Shiry rushed to his aid, but failed. Covering his face with his hands he cried out in anguish. Then came the dull thud as McGee's body hit the concrete base. McGee was dead when picked up, his skull being crushed.

According to word from Syracuse, N. Y., last night, McGee was expected in that city Saturday to be united in marriage.

ANOTHER WOMAN SUSPECT HELD IN KABER CASE

Arrest of Second Male Companion In Crime Expected.

ON WAY WEST

Mother and Daughter Leave New York For Cleveland.

New York, June 10.—Breaking under a grueling examination of almost 12 hours, Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaker now on her way with her 19 year old daughter, Marian McArdle, to Cleveland, told the New York police early today that Daniel Kaber, her wealthy husband, was stabbed to death by a Spanish spiritualist working in her employ.

"I asked a Spanish spiritualist and his wife to go to my husband and through the aid of the spirits ask him to stop treating me so inhumanly. My husband did not believe in spirits and a quarrel followed during which he was stabbed," she is quoted as having said.

Cleveland, O., June 10.—Arrest of a second male suspect in the Kaber murder mystery, which baffled authorities for nearly two years, is expected to take place sometime today.

Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton declared today that all indications point to the early arrest of the other man, believed to have been the companion and accessory of the "man with the cap," accused by Daniel Kaber wealthy publisher, with having stabbed him to death in his bed at his home in Lakewood, a Cleveland suburb.

Prosecutor Stanton, accompanied by Chief of Police Frank W. Smith and Detective Phil Mooney returned shortly before daylight this morning to the county building after an unsuccessful trip after the "second man" a hot tip on his whereabouts having proven erroneous, but police say that the net which has been spread for him is so complete that his capture is only a matter of hours.

The Sandusky woman, arrested Wednesday morning after an automobile ride of seventy miles is still held in solitary confinement at the county jail, and it is now doubtful whether she will be questioned until the stabbers are in custody. According to Prosecutor Stanton's theory, this woman was the one hired to administer the arsenic to the invalid publisher.

Preparations are going ahead for the reception of Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, believed to be the principal in the murder plot and her daughter, Marian McArdle, indicted with her, when they are brought back from New York.

In view of the two reported attempts to commit suicide by Mrs. Kaber in New York she will be under the eye of a guard during the entire time of her incarceration and her every movement will be closely watched, Prosecutor Stanton stated.

Mrs. Mary Brickel, the third figure in the strange triangle, involving mother, daughter and grand-daughter in the plot to kill Kaber, is still in county jail, efforts of her husband and son to raise the bond, which has been reduced to $5,000, having failed.

Leaves For Cleveland. New York, June 10.—Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber and her 19 year old daughter Marian McArdle, who are charged with complicity in the murder of Mrs. Kaber's second husband Daniel F. Kaber a wealthy publisher at Lakewood, a suburb of Cleveland this morning in the custody of Police Chief Christensen of Lakewood and Mrs. Christensen. The party departed on the New York Central at 9:45 o'clock and is due at Cleveland at 10 o'clock tonight.

There the boy will be given a mental test by Dr. H. H. Goddard, of the Bureau of Juvenile Research, and the question of whether he is mentally responsible or is below normal mentality will be determined by the alienist.

On the result of this mental examination and the result of the testimony in the case to be heard by Judge J. J. Carl Marshall, will depend the disposition of the boy, said Judge Marshall, Friday. Following his return from Columbus, Judge Marshall will question the lad and hear the testimony in the case, probably Saturday, and until that time the question of what will be done with the boy, will not be answered, according to Judge Marshall.

That the boy may not have to serve a term in the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, was intimated by the Judge. Depending upon the results of the examination Friday and Saturday it is possible that Judge Marshall will place the boy in a home, not in Greene County, where he will be under the supervision of the Bureau of Juvenile Research, but will not be detained in an institution for punishment. The home Judge Marshall has in mind, is a farm owned by a former social worker, now retired, who sometimes takes boys, whose condition and circumstances do not justify their being placed in an institution or a reform school, and there with the proper home atmosphere, they are given opportunity to grow up under the proper conditions and their deficiencies corrected. Judge Marshall does not yet know, however, whether he can obtain admission for the boy in this home, should he decide on that course, but if he goes find it possible to send the boy to a place of that nature, will make immediate application.

In such a home, said Judge Marshall, it will be possible to determine whether the boy really has

NAVY HEAD REQUESTS ADMIRAL SIMS TO EXPLAIN SPEECH AT BRITISH LUNCHEON

Admiral Sims, at left, photographed at a luncheon given in his honor by the British Pilgrims in London recently. At the right is Lord Desborough, toastmaster at the luncheon.

Secretary of the Navy Denby has requested Rear Admiral Sims to advise the navy department whether the admiral was correctly quoted in press accounts of a speech delivered before the English Speaking Union in London at a luncheon June 7. The query is on statements attributed to Sims regarding the Irish in the U. S. Sims is quoted as saying there were many persons in the United States who technically were Americans, but "none of them Americans at all." They are Americans when they want money, but Sinn Feiners when on the platform. This photo was taken at a previous luncheon, one of many tendered the admiral on his arrival in England.

SIMS VIRTUALLY DEFIES NAVY DEPARTMENT TO "MUZZLE" HIM

Admiral Makes Another Public Address at Luncheon Announcing He Intends Saying What He Thinks.

London, June 10.—Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., today virtually defied the American navy department to "muzzle" him. The admiral, who has been called up by Secretary of the Navy Denby at Washington to explain his sensational "jackets" speech on Tuesday, made another public address at a luncheon this afternoon at which he announced that he intends to keep on saying what he thinks.

Admiral Sims was the guest of the American Luncheon Club. Wilson Cross who introduced the outspoken American naval officer referred to him in these words: "Every honest thinking, true, full blooded American will stand by what Admiral Sims said on Tuesday."

The cheers which greeted the admiral lasted for a minute and a half. "I have attempted upon all occasions to say what I wanted to say," declared Admiral Sims in addressing the gathering. "I have always told the truth as I understood it. I am afraid I told what I believe to be the truth the other day."

"Jimmy" Blangy May Not Serve Term In Institution

If Tests Made in Columbus Show Boy Mentally Sound, "Jimmy" May Be Placed in Home Outside County Judge Marshall Intimates.

Jimmy Blangy, aged 10, who shot and killed his brother, Virgil, aged eight, at their home near Cedarville Tuesday morning, was taken to Columbus Friday morning by Probation Officer Watts.

There the boy will be given a mental test by Dr. H. H. Goddard, of the Bureau of Juvenile Research, and the question of whether he is mentally responsible or is below normal mentality will be determined by the alienist. On the result of this mental examination and the result of the testimony in the case to be heard by Judge J. J. Carl Marshall, will depend the disposition of the boy, said Judge Marshall, Friday. Following his return from Columbus, Judge Marshall will question the lad and hear the testimony in the case, probably Saturday, and until that time the question of what will be done with the boy, will not be answered, according to Judge Marshall.

Depending upon the results of the examination Friday and Saturday it is possible that Judge Marshall will place the boy in a home, not in Greene County, where he will be under the supervision of the Bureau of Juvenile Research, but will not be detained in an institution for punishment. Judge Marshall does not yet know, however, whether he can obtain admission for the boy in this home, should he decide on that course, but if he goes find it possible to send the boy to a place of that nature, will make immediate application.

In such a home, said Judge Marshall, it will be possible to determine whether the boy really has criminal inclinations and is naturally violent. The Judge does not think it probable that Jimmy is mentally unbalanced enough to demand being sent to a place for institutional correction, which is usually necessary only in cases of older boys, believed to be criminally inclined. If the mental test of Jimmy proves he is alright mentally and testimony given Judge Marshall shows the jurist that the boy was not criminally responsible for the act, the home spoken of by the Judge will probably be decided upon as the proper place for his detention for a while.

It is assumed that Jimmy Blangy will not be tried in Greene County Courts for his crime. "He will not be bound over to Common Pleas Court, as was the boy in Knox, Indiana," said Judge Marshall Friday. "I would like to shake the hand of the one jurymen who held out against finding Cecil Burkett guilty of first degree murder in the first trial," he said.

"When Jimmy Blangy is brought into court it will be only on a juvenile delinquency charge, and the place of his detention, will be one where correctional influences will be brought to bear, rather than punishment," said Judge Marshall.

BODIES TO ARRIVE

Columbus, O., June 10.—Enroute to home stations, after being shipped to New York from overseas, the bodies of 72 Ohio veterans of the recent world war are expected to arrive this afternoon over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The bodies will be met at the Union station by a military escort, comprising 51 soldiers from the local United States barracks who will accompany them to home stations.

Tonopah, Nev., June 10.—The pest house was entered here and a mattress and set of blankets stolen from a bed just vacated by a malignant case of smallpox. Police are "awaiting developments."

STRATEGIC NAVAL BASES ON SIBERIAN COAST OFFERED U. S. BY SOVIET

Acceptance Would Give America Control of Pacific—Want Opening of Commercial Relation In Exchange for Grant.

JAPANESE EXTEND OPERATIONS

The announcement that soviet Russia has offered the United States two naval bases on the Pacific—one on the Kamebatka coast and the other near Vladivostok—came at a time when the Japanese troops in Siberia are reported to be extending their area of occupation. The Japanese are supporting the coalition anti-bolshevik government at Vladivostok and the Japanese commander was quoted as saying that, in view of conditions, it would be necessary for the Japanese to occupy towns of strategic importance.

London, June 10.—Two naval bases on the Siberian coast, which, it is declared, would give the United States control of the Pacific, have been offered in perpetuity to America by the Moscow soviet on condition that the United States opens full commercial relations with soviet Russia.

This important offer was revealed today by Washington D. Vanderlip, of Los Angeles, California, head of the American syndicate which has secured rich commercial concessions in Russia. Mr. Vanderlip has just returned from Russia where the final negotiations were concluded.

The agreement between Mr. Vanderlip and the Moscow government, in which the soviet offers the two naval bases to America, is already in the hands of Senator Lodge at Washington.

H. G. WELLS DETAINED

One of the harbors is at Avatcha Bay, on the southeastern coast of Kamchatka. The other is near Vladivostok. Mr. Vanderlip pointed out that a powerful airplane base could be constructed at the southern port (near Vladivostok) which is only about three hours from the Japanese coast by air.

While Nicolai Lenine, head of the soviet government, was in conversation with H. G. Wells, the famous British author, who made a trip of investigation to Russia, he inadvertently let slip the information that two naval bases were being offered to the United States. When Wells was leaving Russia the fear arose that he might reveal something which would be embarrassing to the powers concerned, so that British writer was held on the frontier five days on the pretext of passport technicalities. In the meantime a diplomatic denial was prepared. This information also was revealed by Mr. Vanderlip. The full details of the offer were set forth by Mr. Vanderlip for the International News Service in the following statement:

"We have obtained from the present Russian government, in connection with the concession of 40,000 square miles in Kamchatka, a concession for two naval bases on the Russian Pacific coast to be held in perpetuity by the United States of America. One is at Avatcha Bay. It is a deep water harbor sufficiently large to float the biggest navy in the world. The harbor is land locked with cliffs. The natural protections make it stronger even than Gibraltar. We could make it the strongest naval base in the world. The second base—also a bay—is near the trans-Siberian railway.)

"Our agreement which includes these rights, is in the hands of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. They are conditional only upon the reopening of trade, by the United States with Russia. While the Kamchatka commercial concession is limited to sixty years of life, these bases would be ceded to the United States for all time.

"The report which H. G. Wells brought from Russia regarding this was perfectly correct. He obtained his information through a diplomatic slip of the tongue, by Lenine himself. At that time publication of the news might have caused diplomatic difficulties with Japan. Our fleet then was divided in the Atlantic and Pacific. There was a flurry of excitement at the Kremlin (Lenine's official residence at Moscow) when a subordinate interpreter, a former London newspaper man, called his chief's attention to the slip that had been made revealing the naval base plans to Wells.

"Wells was leaving Moscow on the following day. I learned of the incident and went to George Tchitcherine (the commissar for foreign affairs in the soviet). Upon my advice Wells was stopped at the frontier for five days on a technicality regarding his passport. In the meanwhile a diplomatic denial was reported and issued. We both agreed to discredit Wells as a novelist and a dreamer because of the urgency of the situation with its possibilities of a threat against our peace at a time when we were, unprepared. The situation demanded that any fears in the east be allayed quickly.

CEDARVILLE ALUMNI PLEDGE $100,000 FOR IMPROVEMENTS

The sum of $100,000 toward the $200,000 endowment campaign for the consummation of improvements at Cedarville College, was pledged by members of the College Alumni association at the annual alumni banquet held Thursday evening.

Members of the graduating class of this year were received into Alumni Association at the banquet, which was followed by an interesting program. The after dinner program opened with a duet by Miss Helen Oglesbee, '18 and Mrs. J. L. Chestnut, '18, followed by the welcoming address to the incoming class which was given by S. C. Wright, '03.

Miss Louisa Greer, of this year's class, responded to the welcome. Miss Oglesbee, and Mrs. Chestnut, presented another musical number before the meeting was turned over to Mr. J. Alvin Orr, '97 of Pittsburgh, Pa., who acted as toastmaster for a series of round table talks, on subjects based on Cedarville College, the Alumni Association and the endowment.

Speakers who responded were Probate Judge J. Carl Marshall of this city; City Solicitor J. A. Finney, of this city; William Collins, Miss Florence Williamson; Miss Carrie Rife; Rev. J. L. Chestnut, of Philadelphia; Dr. Homer MacMillan of Atlanta, Ga., and Morton Crosswell.

The result of the meeting was the pledge of the membership of the Association to raise $100,000 toward the new endowment fund. The other $100,000 will be raised by the Board of Trustees and the local committee, the fund to be used to convert the present Alford Memorial gymnasium into a science hall, and building a new gymnasium and a new girl's dormitory on the College campus.

Reports showed that the endowment of $100,000 of last year, was increased by the sum of $20,000 during the year, the total representing the present actual working endowment. The campaign to raise the $200,000, will be carried on this summer being started as soon as the closing exercises of the College are completed.

At present the College property, only includes the two buildings known as College Hall, and the Alford gymnasium which was converted from an old church property. Increasing importance of the school as an educational center, and the fact that it has a growing roster, which now numbers more than 200 students, are two convincing arguments in favor of better facilities and equipment.

SIZE OF BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF COLLEGE INCREASED

The size of the Board of Trustees of Cedarville College was increased by amendment to the constitution, five new members were elected to the Board, and all the old officers were re-elected at the trustee meeting held in College Hall, all day Thursday.

By voting an amendment to the constitution, the trustees agreed to increase the size of the board from 12 to 15 members. O. L. Smith, cashier of the Exchange Bank at Cedarville; George H. Hartman, Cedarville business man and Dr. M. I. Marsh, physician of Cedarville, were the three new members elected to the board to fill out the new quota of fifteen.

W. J. Alford, of New York City, millionaire manufacturer, now sojourning in Paris, who gave the Alford Memorial gymnasium to the College as a memorial to his father, Dr. John Alford, a former teacher at Cedarville, and Howard Ward, millionaire bakery magnate, of New York City, who owns a string of bakeries throughout the country, were also elected to the Board of Trustees. They will succeed Judge J. Carl Marshall of this city and N. L. Ramsey, of Cedarville, whose terms expired this year, and who requested that they be relieved from further duty on the board. William Conley and Dr. F. A. Jurkat, both of Cedarville, were re-elected to their positions on the board, with the new members being elected for three years.

Officers of the board were all re-elected as follows: William Conley, president; Dr. M. I. Marsh, first vice president; O. E. Bradfute, second vice president; S. C. Wright, secretary and Dr. F. A. Jurkat, treasurer.

The Board discussed the endowment question freely and endorsed the program laid out for raising the $200,000 fund that will be the goal of the drive this summer. The trustees will combine with the local committee appointed to raise $100,000 in this section for the erection of buildings, and the other $100,000 has been pledged by the alumni association.

CONTEMPT CHARGES WILL BE FOUGHT BY CAVE OWNERS

Urbana, June 10.—Mrs. Anna D. Reams, and her husband, William Reams, until recent owners of the Mt. Taber cave and who are still disputing the ownership of the cavern, were brought before Common Pleas Judge E. P. Middleton, Tuesday, charged with contempt of court in that during the month of May they refused to allow County Surveyor Raymond Smith to make a survey of the cave at the order of the court, and again on June seventh, they refused to allow Smith to make a survey beyond the line of demarcation between that portion of the cave granted to them by the court and that portion granted Albert Smith of Dayton.

Additional counsel was employed by the Reams Tuesday in the person of Attorney H. W. Houston. They have now gathered about them three firms of attorneys to fight their contempt charges and the case proper which has been taken to the court of appeals.

At the request of these attorneys the hearing on the contempt charges will be heard in common pleas court Tuesday.

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches. If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it at home as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal. Moore's Emerald Oil is very concentrated and a bottle lasts a long time—that's why it is a most inexpensive treatment. It has brought much comfort to worried people all over the country and is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and always bear in mind that anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Generous sample on receipt of 15 cents silver or stamps. International Laboratories, Rochester, N. Y. Druggist Sayre & Hemphill can supply you.

COUNCILMEN WILL REFUSE TO RUN FOR RE-ELECTION

Washington, C. H., June 10.—Every councilman in the present city council has refused to become a candidate for renomination and re-election.

This was ascertained Monday night when, with but one exception, each councilman denied emphatically that he would be a candidate for re-election. The one exception said he did not expect to become a candidate and did not want to, but indicated that if he was pressed to do so, might consider it.

In addition to the councilmen refusing to re-enter the race due largely to the division and long fight over the rate question, Auditor Hitchcock will not be a candidate for another term, and Solicitor Junk has expressed himself as not desiring another term.

Indications are that when the next city administration checks up there will be all new faces, with one or two possible exceptions.

WOMEN WILL FORM LEAGUE OF VOTERS AT WILMINGTON

Wilmington, June 10.—Women of Wilmington are making plans for the formation of a League of Women voters.

Under the auspices of the national league, a meeting of women will be held Friday evening, June 17, in the auditorium of the courthouse. The speaker will be Mrs. David Craig of Washington, C. H.

The organization has two purposes—to foster education in citizenship and to support improved legislation. The program is declared to be educational and legislative. The plan is to get behind needed reforms, to urge their support and adoption in the platforms of the political parties and their enactment into law.

The slogan of the league is "Enroll in the Political Parties." It is declared that the organization is not a woman's party of a separate political party.

MUNICIPAL COURT WILL BE ESTABLISHED IN CITY OF PIQUA

Piqua, June 10.—Governor Harry L. Davis signed the bill Tuesday afternoon establishing a municipal court in Piqua.

The signing of this bill by the governor completes the legislation and a municipal court for Piqua is now an assured fact.

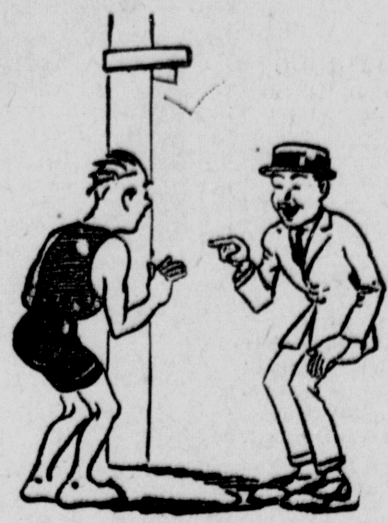

The bill will take from the mayor of the city all his judicial power and he will, after the establishment of the municipal court, have nothing whatever to do with the police business of the city.

The court will also do away with officers of justice of the peace in Piqua and in Washington, Springbrook and Brown townships where jurisdiction will be maintained by the judge of the new court.

6% SURELY Why Gamble?

Wealthy people are not attracted by wild schemes that promise big returns. They know the value of money and they realize that safety and a reasonable return are the first considerations of every wise investment. That is why many of the shrewdest investors in Ohio hold Columbian Certificates of Deposit. With this form of safe investment offering you the liberal interest of 6%, can you afford to gamble? HUNT OWNERS OF
"PIRATE" AIR SHIP

Dayton, O., June 10.—After hunting since last November, the Dayton Wright company officers said today they are unable to learn who owns an airplane left at their field last November. The ship is labeled Marshall-Palmer Air Service, passenger flights, is a Curtiss J. N. 4 and painted black. The craft, it is said, landed at the field last November and two men who did not give their names, said they would call for it in a few days. They have never returned and inquiry has failed to locate any airplane concern knowing about them or the plane. On account of it being painted black, the ship has been dubbed "The Pirate." Officers at the plant say the men who left the craft were unshaven and "rough" looking. They said they would go to Cleveland and then return. The ship will be sold for storage.

PIKE IN OLARK
COUNTY OILED

The Springfield-Xenia pike through Clark county is being oiled by order of the Clark county commissioners, according to Dr. A. C. Messenger, president of the Greene County Automobile Club.

Citizens along the Springfield pike north of the North Detroit street paying in this county, have also had the road oiled in front of their houses. The combination makes a greater part of the trip to Springfield over oiled roads, which are always the bane of motorists.

The Automobile Club is advising motorists of the condition of the pike so that they may avoid the oil on trips to Springfield by taking a detour for several days, until the fresh oil has had opportunity to settle.

REJOICE OVER
HER GOOD HEALTH

Ohio Woman's Big Improvement Results In Many of Her Neighbors Taking Tanlac.

"My husband is taking Tanlac now because he saw how it restored me to health, and it has done him a world of good, too," said Mrs. Charles F. Maahs, wife of the well-known proprietor of the Confectioneries store and who resides at 631 Upson St., Akron, Ohio.

"I took Tanlac after an attack of the flu that left me all run down. I needed something to build me up, and that's exactly what Tanlac did. I was in danger of a relapse when I started taking it, but soon I felt so well and strong I knew all danger was past. First, it gave me an appetite such as I haven't had for years, and then it soothed and toned up my stomach so that my digestion is perfect. I could feel it give me new strength almost with every dose, and instead of being tired and listless as I had been I am full of energy and as happy as the day is long."

"I was so pleased with what Tanlac did for me that I called on a number of my neighbors who had had the flu and who needed something to build them up, and induced them to try Tanlac. Now they are as enthusiastic about it as I am. When my husband began to suffer from stomach trouble the first thing he thought of was Tanlac. It has helped him so wonderfully it's a question now which one of us talks Tanlac most. It's a grand medicine and a stand-by at our house."

Tanlac is sold in Xenia by Sayre & Hemphill and leading druggists.

STRENGTH OF SOLID SOUTH TO BE CUT IN REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

Candidates for the Presidency before Republican National Conventions have long felt the injustice to the North of the number of delegates allowed to Southern States in the convention, from which section the Presidential candidate would not be able to get a single Electoral Vote. Now this has been remedied to a large extent.

Substantial headway was made Wednesday by the Republican National Committee, in session at Washington, by the adoption of a plan that cuts down the representation of the Southern states by 23 votes.

Representation of each state that voted Republican in the last presidential election is increased by two additional delegates-at-large.

The total number of delegates from the so-called "Solid South" in future Republican national conventions will be 167 out of a total of 1,037 as a result of the adoption of this plan.

South Carolina, which cast but 2,246 votes for President Harding last year and had 11 delegates to the Chicago Convention last June, is reduced to 4; Mississippi, which made a showing almost as weak, from a Republican standpoint, is reduced from 12 to 4; Georgia, from 17 to 10; Louisiana, from 12 to 9, and Texas, from 23 to 21.

The states that have an aggressive party organization and made good showings receive a few additional delegates. These include Arkansas, which draws an increase of 1; Florida, 2; Tennessee, 2, and Virginia, 1.

But it is when the candidates come to the Electoral College, (the real election) that the North feels sorest about this Southern Democratic advantage—getting thousands upon many thousands of votes as against not one for the Republican ticket. As for instance, in the 1908 Electoral College, Bryan got 157 votes against 332 for Taft—giving Bryan a start of great advantage to start with—and Taft handicapped by exactly the same.

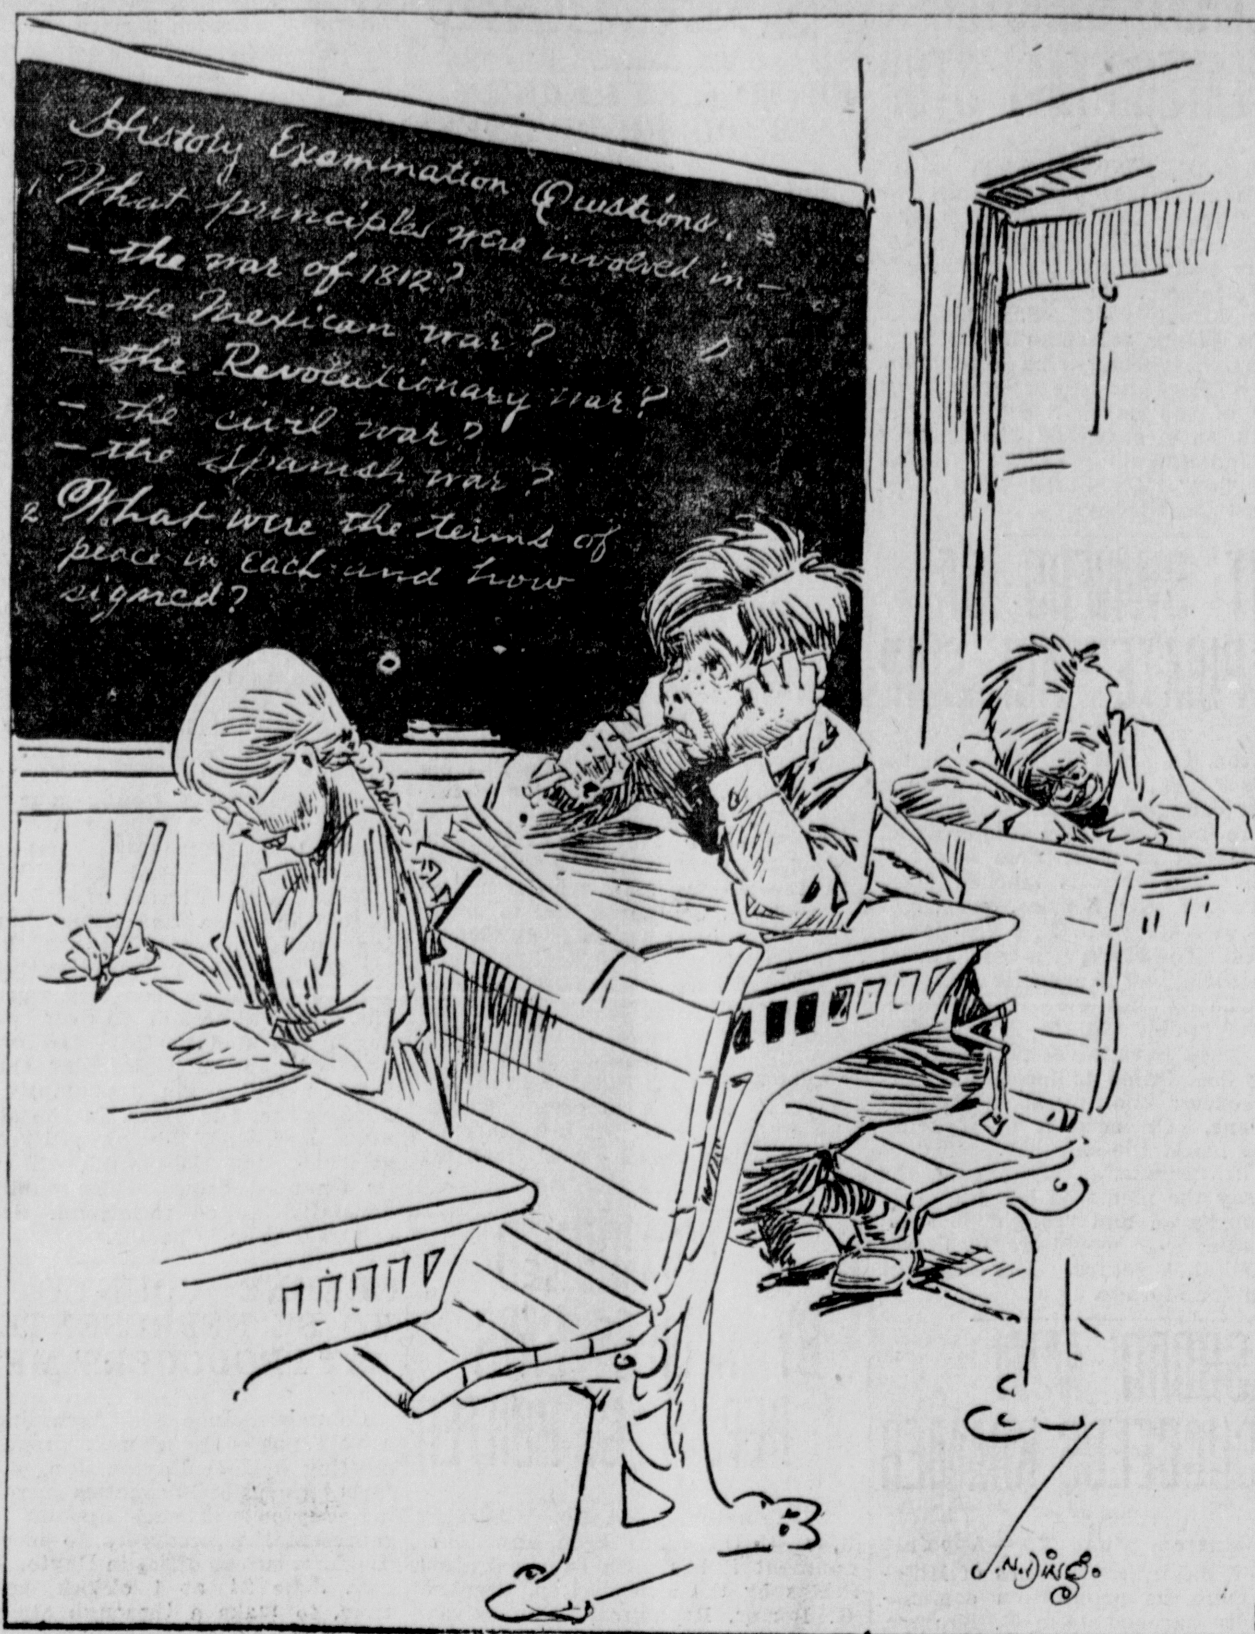

ELECTRIFICATION OF RAILROADS.

Secretary of the Interior Fall is authority for the statement that through the electrification of 36,000 miles of railroads, a fuel saving of six million tons, or $40,000,000 a year, could be effected. Added to this saving would be $50,000,000 annually as a difference in favor of electric versus steam engine repairs and maintenance. The total unit cost of electrification, according to the secretary, would be approximately $40,000 a mile of main line track, which, with 12,600 miles to be electrified, would cost $500,000,000. In addition, yard and siding trackage would call for $300,000,000 or a total of $800,000,000. It is claimed that electrification would displace approximately 7,000 steam locomotives, which, at a salvage value of $22,500 each, would credit the electrification estimate with approximately $150,000,000, leaving a net investment of $650,000,000, yielding an annual saving of ninety million dollars.

RIPPLING RHYMES THE GLOOMY MERCHANT.

The man who's selling bacon, or sugar, shoes or shirts, should not look God-forsaken, for that appearance hurts. You talk about your losses, and mourn, while tearing hair, the many grievous crosses you are obliged to bear; and lo, the weary buyer will think you are a bore, and he will take a flyer to t'other fellow's store. Be cheerful, gay and sunny, if you have things to sell, and you will cop the money, in Easy street you'll dwell. I go to buy some collars where Johnson plays his game, for I spend many dollars in dolling up my frame. And Johnson is a dealer who sells me spats and pumps, for he's a glad some spieler who never has the dumps. I go to buy a collar, a necktie and a cuff, but when I've heard him holler I buy a ton of stuff. I buy me silk suspenders, and blow all kinds of kale, lured onward by the splendors of his uplifting tale. But now and then I sally to Jimpson's necktie store, which is across the alley from Johnson's cheerful door. And Jimpson's so depressing I hasten from his hall, and leave him sadly guessing why I went there at all. I buy no collar button, I buy no spangled hose, for I am not a glutton for other people's woes. The man who's selling notions or squashes by the peck must curb his wild emotions and not weep on my neck.

ILL HE HAS TO TELL WHY WE EN-SHUCKS, THAT'S NOTHING! WAIT T TERED THE LAST WAR, ETC.

Arrangements have been made for a gun shoot at Lucas Grove, within a week or two, between the Rhoder's Island Gun Club, of Dayton, and members of the Xenia Club. There will be eight men on a side.

Arrangements have been made by which a change is shortly to take place in the old and popular clothing firm of Brady and Steinfelds. Mr. L. Steinfelds, who has long had charge of the business, and his partner, Mr. Brady, have both disposed of their interests in the business, and Mr. Goldman of the wholesale firm of Goldman, Beckman and Company of Cincinnati, is the new proprietor.

There are quite a number of fine driving horses in and about Xenia and there is a movement on foot to organize a Gentlemen's Driving Club. A meeting for this purpose will be held Friday evening at the Business Men's Club. In this way the owners of the horses can spend many pleasant occasions.

This is the last week of the public schools and the pupils are looking forward to the pleasant vacation days, to come. Examinations are being held this week.

The alumni association of the Xenia High School is making elaborate preparations for the banquet to be held at the K. of P. Hall on the night of Tuesday, June 18.

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

Noses are not accidents. They are high-signs which reveal the past and unfold the future. Wherever you find one of these aerial guides you may be sure thought has been at work.

The larger the nose the plainer the facts. Ability, imagination, concentration, analysis, construction and execution are all indicated in the area-occupying nose.

Nature planted the nose in the middle of the face for a good reason. She wanted to indicate capacity so plainly that no one could ever truthfully say they were fooled.

And no one is fooled by a nose, except its owner (now and then); but that does not matter, because some big nose is always just around the corner waiting to prove its ability.

Now, there is another nose that likewise tells a story all may read.

It announces its power to create benefits for itself and others, instead of leaving that golden quality to the mercies of chance.

It is important, this other nose—highly important. It either makes or breaks possibility.

We see this nose in many places—in newspapers in magazines, on billboards, in street cars, on placards—everywhere minds peer and eyes see.

When it is a forceful nose, we notice it particularly. We can't help doing so, because it challenges our attention.

We look at it and think about it and weigh its advantages (to our selves). And ultimately, if we are favorably impressed, we act in response to its proportions.

The name of this nose is Advertising.

Advertising is the nose of business!

Why were windows put in stores? To be hung with blinds?

Why does a fruit dealer rip off the cover of a box and thereby expose luscious oranges, or red-cheeked apples? It really does not matter what he shows so long as it is good and tempting.

Why do bootblacks keep their own shoes polished till it requires smoked glasses to look them in the face?

All act for one reason, the same reason—to display wares! All kinds of Wares, to be sure; but all saleable Wares and everyone of them bidding for the notice they deserve from human eyes—in the stores, in the street outdoors, indoors—everywhere desire stalks, open to persuasion in matters which concern it.

Your neighbors—your friends—your competitors—all profit by their knowledge of advertising. They read the advertisements daily in their newspapers—and buy.

A hidden diamond does not shine. It can't. It has no light to bring out its worth.

So with merchandise. It moves only when its quality is known.

Now, since it is obviously impossible for all merchants to expose to individuals singly their separate wares, however ingenious merchants may be, they must employ the only alternative open to them, if they wish to secure wider notice for their products. That alternative is—Advertising.

By this means they are able to inform. They are able to convince. They are able to awaken interest and fan it into action. They are able to accomplish the same result as the store window, the fruit dealer, the bootblack. In short, they are able to sell their products to a circle which widens every time they address it with comparatively little trouble to themselves and with results as positive as warmth after sunshine.

Advertising is the business nose which indicates capacity, to do things, to create new opportunities, to spread benefit through making itself chief informant to all who wish to learn.

When women see that nose in the daily paper they acknowledge by their glance the strength of noses to impress character readers. They acknowledge further by examining it in detail, that they wish to find out all they can about it in order that they profit most from it.

Now, of all times, is the time when business men are telling their merchandise story, are telling it again, or keeping on telling it till it is becoming as familiar to human ears as many well known advertising slogans.

Men of dimensions are not hesitating. They are stepping forward and showing by their gait they are neither afraid of nor dependent upon the doubts of the timid.

Merchants and manufacturers who are now advertising are showing the world that their business noses are forceful and that the moomers' bench is a seat they respectfully decline to occupy.

And because this is true it will pay you to read advertising closely and constantly.

FLOWER MISSION DAY OBSERVED AT LOCAL INSTITUTIONS

Hearts of the pupils of the County Children's Home, and inmates of the County Infirmary, were made glad on the occasion of the visit of the Flower Mission of the W. C. T. U. held at the institution, Thursday.

About sixty five people of the county, from Bowersville, Cedarville, Yellow Springs, and other towns outside of Xenia, attended the exercises in a body, going to the Children's Home at 10 o'clock.

The day's program opened at the Children's Home, where the pupils of the institution were presented with bouquets of flowers, and a scriptural post card, and served ice cream by the members of the organization. A short musical program was given by the children for the enjoyment of the visitors. The work of the pupils for the year was on exhibition.

At the infirmary the inmates were also presented with flowers, and refreshments were served, followed by a short address by Rev. Smith, of Bowersville, delivered in the hospital of the institution. An address was also made by Mrs. Carrie L. Platter, in which she told of the significance of the occasion, concerning how Flower Mission Day was founded.

The story as Mrs. Platter told it was that of Jennie Cassidy, a little cripple girl of Louisville, Kentucky, who unable to walk, cheered the hearts of the other cripples and unfortunate of the city by sending flowers and tokens to their homes. The service of the little girl was called to the attention of Frances Willard, founder of the W. C. T. U., who appointed Miss Cassidy president of the Flower Mission Department of the W. C. T. U.

Since the department's organization, every W. C. T. U. League of the United States has held services annually, at which time they hold services in the institutions of the different cities similar to the exercises held in this city, Thursday.

Practical Business Talks

ADVERTISE YOUR BUSINESS.

The success of advertisers have been so numerous and so remarkable that one would think few would question the business-building power of good publicity.

An ambitious business man, one would suppose, would study this matter of advertising and consult with those who know its principles to the end that he could use it profitably.

But the fact remains that some merchants are still unenlightened and seemingly unwilling to find out how newspaper advertising can increase their sales and turn-overs.

None are so blind as those who will not see.

Advertising is simply telling. An advertisement in this newspaper today tells thousands of people what a store has for sale.

It tells, or should tell, the story so naturally and attractively and convincingly that the readers of this paper will have a desire to visit the store.

The up-to-date merchant avoids old, stale, worn out expressions in his advertising. He does away with the empty boast and the insincere exaggeration. Wanamaker's New York Store once used this sentence on a window advertising card: "These ties are not as good as they look—25 cents." It is said that 75 dozen ties were sold before noon that day. Truth and restraint are necessary if you would have your advertising believed.

Arthur Brisbane once said: "Advertise your business or advertise it for sale."

BREATHING EXERCISES

It may seem odd to ask "do you breathe enough air?" but the truth is that a great many people go about all their lives without drawing in one deep lung-filling breath of pure fresh air. This is unfortunately most true in the case of office workers because eight or more hours of every day are spent indoors, possibly with closed windows and other people in a room to exhaust the vitality of the air. Besides this, office workers sit with the back bent and the chest compressed so that it would be impossible to draw in a really vitalizing breath even if the air were good.

The result of this is that the air entering the lungs does not contain enough oxygen to purify the blood with which it comes in contact. All the blood in the body passes through the lungs in the course of its circulation. While going through the body it has collected the poisons which we are always forming. These are literally burnt up and purified by the fresh air in the lungs, so that the blood passes on again through the body pure and healthy and strong. This is a simplified and anything but technical explanation of the actual function of pure air. If you go without it your blood becomes impoverished.

Lean then to breathe deeply while you are outdoors. If you work in an office and ride to work get off the car a few blocks from your destination, and while you walk breathe deeply and hold the air in the lungs for a few seconds before breathing it out. This is to expand your lung capacity and incidentally to give you a well-shaped chest, shoulders and bust. If you take these breathing exercises you will be in much better shape to do your work.

M. C.—You can receive reliable information about this cast in your eye by writing to the Wills Eye Hospital, Parkway, Philadelphia, Pa., or the Eye and Ear Hospital, Second Avenue and 13th street, New York City. Describe the condition as clearly as possible, so they will know whether or not you should go to them for such an operation.

Anxious.—Massage hot crude oil into the scalp the night before the regular shampoo. It is better than the oil you are using. Your scalp requires treatments or a good tonic use on it several times each week in addition to the crude oil.

A Reader.—Dress in such a way that your bust is not so conspicuous. I would not advise anything to reduce the size of the bust.

Lizzie.—Consult your doctor about this net-work of veins. The red nose probably comes from the same cause. Use a cleansing cream on your face and remove with hot moist cloths. Follow this with an ice rub or plenty of very cold water.

SHOULDER EXERCISES

A great deal has been written about the danger of a woman over developing her shoulders. Square shoulders are not supposed to be beautiful in a woman. This is one of the few remnants of 19th century prejudice that we have carried over into the 20th century. The more feminine sloping shoulder may be better looking than the square shoulder, but there are certain types of figure to which only the square shoulder is becoming so a woman need not refrain from developing her shoulders because she fears to make them brawny and unfeminine. As a matter of fact, it would take much more exercise than most women could possibly manage to over develop the shoulders.

There are two excellent exercises both very easy to do at home. One is to stand upright with the arms stretched out in front of you and hands doubled into fists. Draw the hands back to the shoulders, tensing the muscles as though you were pulling a great weight. Fancy yourself out rowing a heavy boat against a strong current, that is the sort of exercise you are doing and it is one of the best for developing the shoulders and giving a beautiful shape to the upper part of the back.

The next exercise is somewhat like this only the hands are held out at the sides and drawn into the shoulders, so that when the elbow is bent the fists rest on top of the shoulders. Once more in doing this you must imagine you are pulling against a heavy weight. You must tighten the muscles until they hurt, and rejoice instead of grieve next day if your arms and shoulders feel sore. Doing the exercise again will take out the soreness. The proof that you need the exercise is the soreness of those muscles.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

The Growth of the Soul.
Our spiritual bodies are all the time breaking up, changing into that which is better—in something of the manner of the stage settings in a play which must constantly be shifted that the play may go on.

One writer says of the growth of the soul that there is a continual "breaking of swaddling bands" and that there is no limit to the process. Such is a happy realization.

"The first thing," says another inspiring writer, "is to teach a child that he has a soul. The first thing to give a boy is an outlook on a moral, intellectual, and esthetic world; not to endow him with that, is to leave him without horizons: a human creature blind and deaf, centered in the work of his hands and in physical conditions—an economical animal."

We are creatures of craving. It was meant that way. For if our souls would grow, they must experience newness and be given water for their thirst.

I believe Jesus had this in mind when He talked with the woman at the well. He spoke of "living water" from which well no bucket was necessary in order to draw it. A well of water in people, all the time springing up, was what He taught.

And to quench our thirsts for this water, we must forget the materialism of our bodies and bear in mind that our soul is the only thing about us that is all the time growing to live—whereas our bodies are all the time getting just a little nearer to their end.

To those who do not understand, life continually heaves up its mountains of fears and frets. But in the calm recesses of our souls there can be found only beauty and contentment.

The soul is always mounting. To it the stars are but a nearby playground.

Someone has said that in Heaven there are no Sundays. So in the life of the soul, there are no holidays. Everything is continual—walking toward eternity.

It was in one of those ecstasies of soul growth, I believe, that Browning so beautifully wrote:

"God's in His Heaven.

DINNER STORIES

It was a chemistry class, and the aged professor, who was anything but a Pussyfoot, was doing a stock experiment, which consisted of blowing vigorously upon some blue crystals, whereupon they turned yellow.

When he had finished he asked the class if they had any questions to ask.

"Yes, sir," came a voice from the back of the room. "Will anybody's breath do that?"

"There's a movement on foot to compel husbands to pay salaries to their wives, the same as to anyone else who works for them. Don't you think that's fair?"

"Eminently fair, if the husband reserves the right to fire those who prove unsatisfactory."

"Sambo, I don't understand how you can do all your work so quickly and so well."

"I'll tell yuh how 'tis, boss. I sticks de match ob enthusiasm to de fuse ob yenergy—and jes natchurality explodes, I does."

When Professor Walter Raleigh was asked to lecture at Princeton college, Professor Root went down to the station to meet the distinguished visitor. Professor Root did not know Professor Raleigh, but walking up to a man whom he thought looked like him, he said: "I beg your pardon, but am I addressing Walter Raleigh?"

The man looked at him for a moment and thinking he must be mad replied:

"No, I am Christopher Columbus. Walter Raleigh, is in the smoking room with Queen Elizabeth."

An Irishman traveling on a train was unable to produce his ticket when the inspector demanded it. "I must have lost it," he explained, after making a thorough search of his pockets.

"But you couldn't have lost your ticket," protested the inspector. "It must be in your pockets somewhere."

"You don't know me," replied the Irishman. "I lost a bass drum once."

Styles BY LENORE

In the crisp freshness of the dainty guimp or gilet lies the chic which transforms the simple frock of crepe, foulard or linen. Its the front that makes the frock, is the opinion of the smartest guimps the mode has known. From the top down they are:

Ecu embroidered batiste, with pintucked insert of net and inverted net frill.
Like a flash of sunlight is the organdie gilet with yellow border and the quaint one-sided pleated frill—a model particularly suited to wear with a sport coat.

The embroidered batiste V-panel with net frill and collar was copied from a French navy foulard frock, figured with tan blocks.

And the severe surplus model of embroidered batiste collar, was recommended by the shop where I found it, for an older woman's dark linen dress.

RED CROSS HOLDS REGIONAL MEETING FRIDAY IN DAYTON

Members of the Executive Board of the Greene County Chapter of the Red Cross were among the hundreds of other Red Cross officials that attended the Regional conference of southwestern Ohio, held at the National Cash Register School house in Dayton, Friday.

A program dealing with every phase of Red Cross work was arranged for the conference. Members of the organization who attended the conference were the guests of the N. C. R. and John R. Patterson at the meeting.

On their arrival at the N. C. R. plant the guests were greeted by the N. C. R. employees. The first number on the program was an address, "The Spirit of the Red Cross," by Rabbi Mayerberg of Dayton. The next number of the program was "The Relation of the Chapter to the National Organization," by E. L. McCune, vice chairman of the Columbus Chapter, followed by another address by R. A. Selby of the Scioto County Branch. "The Duties of the Chapter Chairman," was presented by A. T. Cordray of the Madison County Branch. "Duties of the Executive Secretary," was given by A. J. Pauly of the Miami County organization. A round table discussion was held at this time, and was in charge of Professor Thomas L. Harris of the Oxford Branch, followed by lunch. Toast master during the lunch hour was Mr. McCormick. Following lunch the guests were taken on a tour of the Red Cross plant.

The afternoon program consisted of an address on "The Field of Red Cross Activities," by Shelby P. Folks of the Middletown chapter, followed by an address by Mrs. W. M. Jones of the Miami County chapter. "The Junior Red Cross," was discussed by Miss Jesse Cavanaugh of the Hamilton County Branch, while "The Present Production Situation," was presented by Miss Virginia Wing of the Lake division. The remainder of the program was devoted to the following addresses: "The Cooperation of the Red Cross with Other Organizations," by N. R. Warthen of the National Military Home, "The National Military Home," Major C. P. Grove, chief surgeon of that institution, "How to Keep Up Red Cross Membership," Thomas H. Craig, of the Fayette County Branch; and "Methods of Publicity," by B. B. Deyer, chairman of the roll call of the Montgomery County Chapter. A general discussion followed the speaking program.

REALM OF BOOKS

BRIEF REVIEWS OF LITERATURE RECENTLY PLACED ON THE SHELVES OF THE COUNTY LIBRARY.

"THE HOUSE OF BALTAZAR," by William J. Locke, is a story of a self exiled man who awoke one day to find civilization with its back to the wall, the land he loved aflame with patriotism, old passions forgotten, old land marks swept away, the girl he loved a nurse, a son he had not known, the wearer of a hero's cross, men in multitudes following ideals across colossal fields of agony.

How he redeemed himself, threw his mighty personality into every slightest niche of service until his country turned to him with new hope—how John Baltazar came back that is the big story, perhaps the biggest story, Mr. Locke has yet written.

"WHITE SHADOWS IN THE SOUTH SEAS," by Frederick O'Brien, is not a heavy "book of travel." Its appeal is to the average man and woman who would like to visit strange places but cannot do so. It is merely a tale of a year's residence among the simple, friendly cannibals in the furthest islands of the far South Seas. The reader will find only the story of what he himself might have experienced and casually learned among these savage people, fast-vanishing links with the childhood of mankind; and it is all told with such color and reality as to make it seem that the reader has himself seen and felt all that Mr. O'Brien did.

The book is really a journey to the Marquesas Islands between cloth covers; it is atmosphere and incident and color and human interest. Its appeal is, not only to the readers of travel books, but also to the thousands of fiction readers who delight in books of facts that are presented with the dramatic intensity and narrative swiftness of a novel.

"THE OUTLINE OF HISTORY," by H. G. Wells, is an attempt to tell truly and clearly, in one continuous narrative, the whole story of life and mankind so far as it is known today.

It has been written primarily to

WINNER OF FAMOUS SUBURBAN HANDICAP

Audacious, with Jockey Kummer up, snapped after the race.

Because he never had gone the long route as a three or four-year-old, bettors figured Audacious had little chance to win the thirty-fifth renewal of the Suburban handicap at Belmont Park. But under the skilful guiding of Jockey Kummer he won. Exterminator, the 7 to 5 favorite, finished fifth. In winning the event Audacious equaled the track record, set many years ago.

show that history as a whole is amenable to a more broad and comprehensive handling than is the history of special nations and periods, a broader handling that will bring it within the normal limitations of time and energy and set to the reading and education of an ordinary citizen. This outline deals with ages and races and nations, where the ordinary history deals with reigns and pedigrees and campaigns; but it will not be found to be more crowded with names and dates nor more difficult to follow and understand.

It is an attempt to tell how our present state of affairs, this distressed and multifarious human life about us, arose in the course of vast ages and out of the inanimate clash of matter and to estimate the quality and amount and range of the hopes with which it now faces its destiny.

OBITUARY

Nellie Edith Miller, daughter of Frederick and Ella Lewis Miller was born near Lumberton, Clinton County, Ohio, Sept. 9th, 1890 departed this life, May 6th, 1921 at Xenia, Ohio, aged 30 years 7 months and 27 days.

She was united in marriage to Herbert Dean November 21st, 1907 and to this union were born two children, Lorena and Russell.

She leaves to mourn her loss besides her husband and children, her mother, Mrs. Ella Miller, Paintersville, O., and the following brothers and sisters, Mrs. Harry DeVoe, Mrs. Glenn Thompson, William, Raymond and Charles and a host of relatives and friends.

She was a member of the New Jasper Methodist Episcopal Church and Sunday School, and delighted to be affiliated with the work of her church.

Most of her girl hood days were spent in the vicinity of Paintersville O., and since her marriage had resided at the Dean Homestead near New Jasper.

The past winter had been spent in the Southland with her husband and children and returning home about three weeks ago, had owing to her frail condition been at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dean near Xenia, Xenia.

Edith, as we loved to call her, was of a kind and affable disposition always thinking of others' needs first and she had the happy faculty of making many friends, she was a loving little mother and was happy in the love of husband and children.

All that kind attention and loving ministry could do was done for her, but her frail body could not combat the grim reaper, death, and just at the close of day, as the sun sank in the west, her life slowly ebbed away and her spirit departed from the heavenly realm there to await the coming of her loved ones.

There will be days when your heart will be sad and lonely and you long for the sound of that dear sweet voice.

We can not always understand the Divine Will of God, but if we trust and believe in His Word, submitting ourselves to His will, his spirit shall abide in our hearts.

Dear Husband and children, your loss is irreparable and can not be healed by human hands and words, but may God's promise of a comforting spirit abide in your hearts and the beautiful memory of your loved one in her realm of home-ties be as a benediction upon your lives.

TEARS COME FROM YOUTHFUL KILLER AS BROTHER BURIED

The Rev. W. P. Harriman, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian Church of Cedarville, preached a lesson on the proper manner of rearing children, in his sermon at the funeral services for Virgil Blangy, aged eight, shot and killed by his ten year old brother, Jimmy, last Tuesday.

The services were held at the home of the lad's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blangy, near Cedarville, Thursday afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock. The little boy victim of the shooting, was laid away in a white coffin covered with flowers sent by neighbors and friends, including a handsome spray, the gift of the R. P. Sunday school class of which he was a member.

Practically the entire sermon given by the Rev. Mr. Harriman was devoted to a lesson on the duties of parents to their children. A quartette composed of G. H. Crosswell, Miss Erma Crosswell, Miss Hathway and Hugh Turnbull, sang two psalms.

Jimmy Blangy, who shot and killed his little brother, attended the funeral in the custody of Sheriff and Mrs. Lincoln Funderburg. The Sheriff had purchased him a new suit, shoes and stockings to wear to the services. At the house he showed no emotion until he saw his mother, gazing at the little figure in the white casket, and sobbing pitifully. Then Jimmy took her by the arm, and the tears welled in his eyes, and he flowed down his cheeks, as he too looked into the little coffin. It appeared as if the little fellow realized then what he had done.

Four little boys, members of the R. P. Sunday School class to which Virgil belonged, acted as pall bearers and escorted the white casket to the grave. They were William Nagley, Paul and Everett Townsley and Robert Bratton. Burial was made in the Massie's Creek Cemetery.

Following the services Jimmy Blangy was brought back to the Sheriff's residence here where he is being held pending action of the authorities.

"STIFF WOMEN HAVE STIFF BRAINS"

London, June — The hockey-playing girl was unanimously described as a potentially bad mother at a conference held on the "Present Physical Education of Girls."

"Eighty per cent of women gymnastic instructors have been more or less incapacitated for bearing children," said one of the speakers, "while the little feminine woman of the Victorian era had usually three or four strapping sons."

Miss Redman, of the School of Physical Development, said she had invariably found that the stiff muscular woman had a stiff, slow-working brain. Physical training colleges were preparatory schools for nursing homes for nervous cases. Swedish drill was German propaganda for reducing the population—via Sweden.

GRADUATING CLASS OF JUNIOR HIGH GIVEN DIPLOMAS

Parents, patrons, and those interested in the work of the McKinley Junior High School, filled the auditorium of that school to witness the closing exercises of the graduating class of Junior High, held Thursday morning. Judged by the instructors and friends as one of the finest classes that ever graduated from the McKinley Building, the 1921 class of the Junior High, reflected much credit to the school, and its progress since its adoption in this city.

The 1921 Junior High Class was composed of approximately 100 pupils, who donated all their interest to the climax of a school year, as shown in the exercises held Thursday.

The exercises of the class, were marked with simplicity. Girls of the class added an original and simple feature to the exercises, by wearing gingham gowns that they had completed during their school year. A procession of the class held before the opening exercises, displayed to the audience the result of the work of the sewing class. Following the procession, the class was assembled on the stage of the auditorium, where the exercises were held. The program was opened with a prelude "On Venice Waters," by the school orchestra. The invocation was in charge of Rev. G. A. Scott of the First Methodist Church.

Miss Anna Louise Jones, an honor pupil of the school delivered the first address, in the form of an introduction. Addresses of pupils of the class were written with the idea of presenting the departments of the school studies, the first address being given by Louis Buell on Practical Arts. This address was followed by a violin solo by Miss Mary Noble. Mary Ballentine gave a well delivered talk on gorment making and John North upheld athletics.

The next number on the program was a song "Garden on the Sea," by a girl's quartette, composed of Edith Davidson, May Olesbee, Mary Crawford, and Lalene Vandine.

The remainder of the program was devoted to addresses on the other departments of the school including "Science" by Ella Dice, "Our School Library" by Earl Boyland, "Civics" by Henry Eavey, and the summary by Louise Wood. A piano solo was given by Marjorie Street.

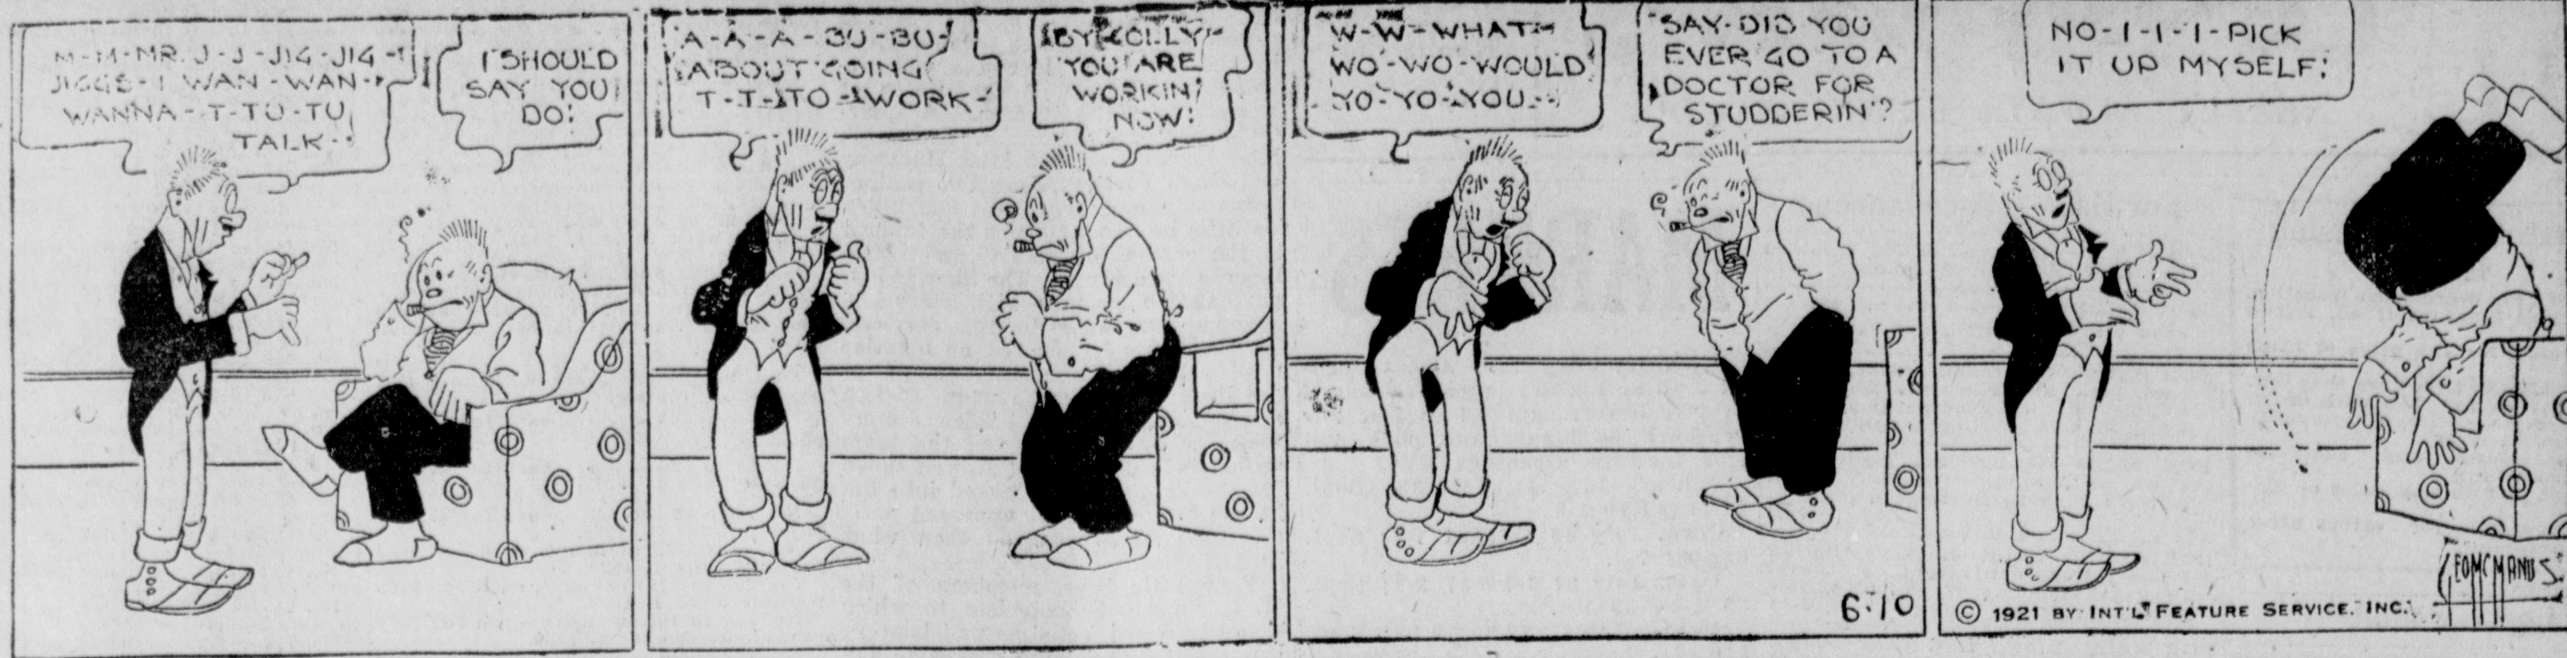

Superintendent of Schools C. A. Waltz presented the 100 certificates to the pupils following the program. The exercises closed with the singing of the class song, composed by the class, and the benediction by Rev. Dr. C. P. Proudfit.

TWO ARE PAINFULLY INJURED AS CAR UPSETS ON PIKE

Two people were painfully injured and two others bruised and shaken, when the automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace, and little daughter, and Mrs. Wallace's mother, Mrs. Jewell all of Jamestown, upset on the Jamestown-Xenia pike about four miles from Jamestown, Thursday afternoon.

The accident happened when a tire on the machine came off of a front wheel, causing Mr. Wallace to lose control of the car, which shot across the road, and overturned on top of the occupants in the ditch. The accident happened near the home of T. E. Darling, where the accident victims were taken and Dr. L. C. Walker of Jamestown called to dress the injuries.

Mrs. Wallace, who received a cut near the eye and was rendered unconscious was the most seriously injured, while her mother, who was hurt about the head, also suffered painfully. Mr. Wallace and his little daughter, were bruised and shaken up by the accident.

SCHOOL FRIEND OF LOCAL MAN SINGS FOR COLUMBUS FIRM

Howard Marsh, whose tenor voice is now being heard in popular numbers on Columbia phonograph records, is a former school friend of James D. Adair, of this city, at Denison University, Cranville.

Marsh was the leading tenor with the Greenwich Village Polies, this season, but Mr. Adair was not aware that his friend was with that company, when it played in Dayton. He has received a letter from him saying that he is now singing for Columbia records, and his records are among a recent issue. He was formerly with the company playing "Sari."

REPLIES TO READERS

N. D.—Mildew is different from other stains. It is a mould, and like other moulds it may be killed by strong sunlight. The growth is stopped by drying it in strong sunshine, after moistening it but this will not necessarily bleach the material. A great deal depends upon how long the mildew mould has been growing. Sometimes covering it with lemon juice and letting the sun shine directly upon it will remove the spot. Another way is to cover the stain with a mixture of soap jelly and pulverized chalk and then expose it to direct sunlight. Javelle water will generally remove the spot when everything else fails (always follow Javelle water with clear water). But if the mildew stain is very old, there is danger of its never being removed.

M. M. W.—Escalloped Tomatoes: Wash and stew fresh tomatoes canned may be used if desired and put them into a buttered baking dish with alternate layers of well-seasoned stale bread crumbs or with cracker crumbs. Have a crumb layer on top, and dot this over with butter. Bake till top is quite brown.

Strawberry Shortcake: Cream together 1 tablespoon butter and 1 cup of granulated sugar; add 3 well-beaten eggs. Now sift together 2 cups flour, 1-2 teaspoon soda and 1 scant teaspoon cream of tartar; add these dry ingredients to the mixing bowl alternately with 1 cup of milk. Bake in a deep tin (about 30 minutes in a good oven) or in two layer cake pans. If the deep tin is used, split the shortcake into two round pieces and put between these, and on top, hulled, crushed berries which have stood, well sugared for an hour. Serve with cream or with whipped cream.

Chicken Salad: Toss together 2-1/2 cups diced cooked chicken, 1 cup diced celery, 2 tablespoons olive oil, 1 tablespoon vinegar, and salt and pepper to taste. Let this mixture stand 30 minutes in the refrigerator, then add enough mayonnaise dressing to bind it well together. Serve on lettuce.

Mrs. E. W.—I haven't the recipe you desire, but shall keep your request on file and publish such a recipe if I chance to come across it.

High School Student: This is "just how" to make fudge which I mentioned recently: Fudge with Marshmallow filling: Put 1-1/2 lb of marshmallow with 1-4 cup of cold water in the top of a double boiler over rapidly boiling water and let cook until melted (about 15 minutes). Then set boiler aside to wait for the fudge part.

Fudge: Put into a frying pan 2 cups granulated sugar, 1 cup milk and 2 squares of unsweetened chocolate finely shaved; let boil until a little, when dropped into a cup of cold water, will form a soft ball at once (this will be about 15 minutes after it begins to boil). Now stir in a piece of butter the size of hickory nut (too much butter spoils it) and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Remove pan from range and stir the fudge vigorously in the pan for 4 minutes—or until it begins to "sugar" around the edges of the pan and shows signs of hardening. Pour it into a buttered layer-cake pan and spread the melted marshmallow mixture over it at once. You must now go to work and make another pan of fudge, for the top layer (to go over the marshmallow layer). This is of course a good deal of trouble, but the two amounts cannot be made at once, because the fudge for the top layer will surely harden in the pan while it is waiting for the marshmallow layer to go on. Mark into squares when the top fudge-layer is on.

WILL READ REPORT AT MEETING ON MONDAY NIGHT

The report of the executive secretary, Mrs. Eber Reynolds, will be read at the monthly meeting of the Social Service League, to be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Commission chamber at the City Building.

That all people interested in social work and in the particular work of the League are invited to the meeting, is the statement of members, who say they wish to correct a feeling among many people that the meetings are not open, as the public is always invited to the conferences.

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

GLORIA AND IRENE TELL TALES

I was determined to do something to stop this intolerable meddling between Keith and me—but what? He apologized again very sweetly, but not blaming Margaret.

"I think she might have attended to it as long as she offered to," I said. Nothing had been said about such an "offer," but I was sure in my mind that she had and then had purposely kept him from going into town because of her trifling indisposition.

"It was kind in her to offer," Keith returned rather absentmindedly, so confirming my suspicion. "I don't like the idea of her having fainting attacks. It isn't like her. She has always been remarkably healthy, although not as strong as some." His tone showed real anxiety.

I longed to scream at him that her fainting spells were faked, that she hated me for marrying him (she had no other reason) and had made up her mind to separate us. But Keith was not the sort of man one could often rave at. I was too afraid of making him angry to voice my suspicions, let alone giving vent to my anger.

"She looks all right. I shouldn't worry if I were you," I said but the sarcasm escaped him entirely.

"I am glad you think she looks well. I felt quite worried." Just then the children, who had heard I was back came rushing in, each embracing me in their impetuous ways.

"Ob, I am glad you are back!" Gloria exclaimed giving me what she called "a bear hug." "Please don't go away again." And Irene: "Aunt Vera, if you go away again I am going to ask mamma to let me go with you. I missed you dreadfully."

The honest welcome of the children went far to heal the hurt I felt because of Keith's failure to meet me. As I look back I realize that it would have been much more dif-icult for me to get along, living, as I did with Margaret, had it not been for the little girls. For a wonder, Margaret had not interfered with their association with me. It may have been because I often cared for them, so giving her more liberty. Or it may have been a careless disregard of anything I did that was not connected with Keith.

"Would you like a saddle horse the remainder of the summer?" Keith asked a few days after my return. "You aren't looking quite as fit as you should."

"Can you afford it, Keith?" The children had their ponies to ride and I had not forgotten his refusal to get me a horse when we were first married on the ground that he could not afford it.

"Yes. I can get one very reasonably for the summer. You have your togs, haven't you?"

"Yes, up at the house."

"Go in with me in the morning and get them. I will engage the horse tonight. I have talked with the stable man, and he says he has a safe good ladies mount."

"I don't want him too gentle," I replied. "I like a spirited horse."

"You haven't ridden in some time, dear. It is better for you to go a bit slowly at first."

After dinner Keith disappeared. I knew he had gone to see about getting the horse. He returned in an hour and stopped to tell me it was all right, and to be ready to go in town in the morning after my riding togs. Gloria and Irene were with me on the lawn and went into perfect raptures because I was to ride with them.

"I didn't tell you, because you didn't believe me when I told you about the sailing party," Irene confided. "But I heard Uncle Keith tell Mamma that no matter what she said he was going to let you ride, that you were grieving too much for your father, and he was afraid you would get sick. Mamma said she didn't see how he could afford it, and he told her he would manage some way, but you were going to ride. Then mamma asked him how much the horse was going to cost and made him give her a check. She said if you could have a horse she should have the same amount to spend as she wanted to. Then I heard her tell Mrs. De Lisle that Uncle Keith had given her a check for a new evening coat and dress."

I had let the child chatter on because of my curiosity and a certain feeling that I always had of being more able to cope with Margaret better if I knew what was going on between her and Keith. But Irene was inclined to "tattle" and I knew should not be encouraged. So I said—but not until after I had heard all she knew.

"You mustn't listen and then tell what you hear, Irene."

"I don't tell anyone but you," the little girl answered.

"You do too!" Gloria broke in. "You are a regular tattle tale. I heard you tell Mrs. De Lisle that mamma said Uncle Keith thought her lovely."

"Suppose I did! You mind your own business!" Irene sometimes imposed upon Gloria because she was a little older.
